

Clive Barrow
Consultant Partner
New Zealand

Clive began his career as a graduate of the Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst. He completed his commission with the Queen's Royal Irish Hussars, leaving as a Captain, to take up a field director's role, planning and leading expeditions throughout the developing world for the international youth development charity, Operation Raleigh. Returning to a commercial role in the UK, he spent seven years as Operations Director for World Challenge Expeditions, where as an executive director he planned, recruited and trained leaders for up to 150 challenging adventure expeditions annually to the developing world.

Clive then moved into consultancy in 1998 as a UK-based corporate leadership consultant. He emigrated with his family to New Zealand in 2005, and since then has been providing leadership & management development consultancy across the Asia Pacific region, as well as sometimes returning to EMEA. Clive was for four years The Oxford Group's Managing Director, Asia, and now continues to support several leading global consultancies, and work with his own clients worldwide.

During his varied career, Clive has worked in a total of over 40 countries, and currently operates primarily with multinational organisations in the Asia Pacific region. Over the past ten years, he has developed valuable cultural insights through working with delegates from Hong Kong, mainland China, Japan, Singapore, Thailand, Korea, Malaysia, Australia and New Zealand, the Middle East and Africa.
